 Nationalgalerie
Staatliche Museen zu Berlin

Ever since 2000, Berlin's Nationalgalerie has been awarding the Preis der Nationalgalerie to young and pioneering contemporary artists every two years. The impressive list of artists nominated for the Preis over the past nineteen years and the award winners reflect the diversity, the international quality and the vitality of the art world in Germany. All past prizewinners are now key figures in Germany's artistic landscape today. To begin the process of selecting the tenth winner of the Preis which will be awarded on September 12, 2019, Nationalgalerie, Freunde der Nationalgalerie and Deutsche Filmakademie are pleased to announce the members of the first jury, five internationally prominent figures:

Nikola Dietrich, Director Kölnischer Kunstverein

Doris Dörrie, writer and filmmaker

Marina Fokidis, curator, writer and director of South as a State of Mind journal

Ulrich Matthes, actor

Bigge Örer, Director of the Istanbul Biennale

From the candidates proposed, this jury will choose four nominated artists who will be announced on March 1, 2019 at Hamburger Bahnhof – Museum für Gegenwart – Berlin. Museum directors and curators from around the world and members of Freunde der Nationalgalerie can suggest candidates. This jury will also select the prizewinner of the Förderpreis für Filmkunst, awarded in cooperation with Deutsche Filmakademie.

During late summer, the four nominated artists will present a joint exhibition held from August 16, 2019 - January 12, 2020 at Hamburger Bahnhof – Museum für Gegenwart – Berlin. On the basis of this exhibition, a second jury will choose the winner of the Preis der Nationalgalerie 2019 on September 12, 2019. The award consists of an individual show with a catalogue at one of the Nationalgalerie's institutions during 2020.
